

1 could be, and there was, in fact, in the legislature
2 in London and in England itself a tyranny in the majority.

3 We are not arguing here today. The minority 4 report does not argue the case for one vote per county, but 5 it is arguing to say that this Convention is going to 6 operate and is going to put it in the Constitution itself
7 if it decides to try, after two months deliberations, that 8 the size of the legislature for all time, barring a 9 Constitutional amendment sometime in the future -- and 10 we know how difficult this is to get accomplished, shall 11 be in the ratio of 35 to 105.

12 There seems to be some implied criticisms of the 13 remark I made, that my remarks were intended to imply some 14 derogation of the members of the Legislative Branch
15 Committee. If any of those remarks were so taken by any 16 member of that Committee I do hereby apologize for it.
17 I thought it was appropriate to point out that there was no
18 unanimity of opinion on that Committee, that the condition
19 existed while the Committee had this matter under con-
20 sideration, and I say to you fellow delegates, it exists
21 here today.